

FRANKFORT FIREMEN PICNIC SUNDAY

Held Last Rites
For Mokena
Pioneer Resident

Mrs. Elizabeth Helen Cappel, aged 85, passed away in her home in Mokena Monday July 8th, following an illness of two months. With her passing Mokena loses one of the last pioneers of this section, for Mrs. Cappel's parents George and Henrietta Stork, were the second white family to come to Mokena. The Storks walked all the way from Chicago and arrived in Mokena June 23, about 1857. They bought a log cabin which the Indians had built and that was their home.

In this log cabin, Mrs. Cappel was born January 29, 1861, and grew to womanhood there. She often recalled the many pleasant experiences of her family with the Indians who were always friendly. The latter came to her home for fresh vegetables in summer.

Mrs. Cappel, in her younger days was a Sunday School teacher in the St. John's Evangelical church for many years, and she was the oldest member of the Women's Guild of that church.

On August 17, 1896 she was united in marriage with Mr. John Cappel also of Mokena. They drove with horse and buggy to Joliet that day, where they were married and then attended a circus, where they were awarded a fine cook stove for being the youngest married couple attending. They used this stove for over 30 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Cappel made their home with her parents. Her mother died Sept. 21, 1921 at the age of 99 years.

To the Capps were born two children, Carrie and Walter, the former preceded her parents in death on Feb. 4, 1933. A few years after the death of their daughter the Capps moved to the village of Mokena living in the house occupied by their daughter and family. Mr. Cappel died in an auto accident in 1942.

Since the death of her husband, Mrs. Cappel's health has been declining and her last few years were made pleasant and happy by the loving care of her daughter in law and son Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cappel who survive her.

Also surviving are three grand children Violet, Arthur and Jack Hurley, and many other relatives and a host of friends.

Funeral services were held Thursday afternoon in St. John's Evangelical church with the pastor, Rev. Wm. Riemann officiating. Burial was in St. John's cemetery.

Mokena Man
At Bikini

F. L. Frank Sizer, 86, of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sizer of Mokena, telephoned his parents from Honolulu advising them that his ship the USS Mender and its personnel were ordered to take part in the atomic bombing at Bikini. It is assumed that Sizer arrived there in time and we are awaiting to hear from him as to his personal experience.

Another member of the Sizer family, Lt. Vernon Sizer of Washington, D. C. brother of Mr. Frank Sizer of Mokena, also was present at the crossroad bombing.

Lt. Sizer, who is a member of the Navy staff on the USS Avery was in charge of some of the bombing. In a letter recently sent to the Sizers he told them he was sending a sealed letter after the bombing had taken place which would have the postage cancellation from that part of the world. The letter has not yet been received.

A watch is being kept and when the guilty parties are caught there will be a fine of $100 assessed. It seems too bad that a notice of this nature has to be given for people to observe decency in a hallowed spot.

NEW NATIONAL ANTHEM

WASHINGTON.—Gen. Joseph P. McNarney, who is doing a better job as commander of occupied Germany than most people think, likes to sing. And when he comes up to Berlin for his regular visits with the other Allied commanders, he always engages in a song fest with the Russians.

As a result, the Russians have adopted a new song which they virtually regard as the American national anthem. They sing it on any and all occasions. They think it brings pride and pleasure to the hearts of Americans; and the Red army in Berlin, at least, is anxious to please Americans.

Actually the song may bring great pride and pleasure to General McNarney, but other Americans privately are getting a bit weary of it. The Russians have learned the English words, and to the tune of "The Stars and Stripes Forever," here is what they sing as the new American national anthem:

"Three cheers for the Sam Jones Junior high school,

The best junior high in Toledo." The fact that they have learned the words illustrates a point which some of our top-bracket statesmen don't always realize—namely, despite our difficulties with the Soviet government, we have no quarrel with the Russian people. Not much has been said about it, but relations between the American and Soviet armies in Berlin have been extraordinarily good. At first, the Russians were suspicious, didn't want any fraternization of their troops with ours. But that suspicion has largely disappeared. The Red army is a large, unwieldy, badly disciplined, very human cross section of the Russian people, and that part of the Red army which is in Berlin likes Americans.

PRUSSIAN JUNKERS

Robert Murphy, political adviser to General McNarney in Berlin, has secretly sent a bitter complaint to the state department because the Russians have redistributed the estates of the Prussian Junkers in the Soviet zone of Germany. The Russians have broken up some 10,000 large estates among about 275,000 peasants. Despite the fact that the Potsdam agreement specifically called for breaking up large estates, Murphy has warned Washington that this land reform in the Russian zone is endangering the western type of democracy we want.

WE DIDN'T DEFEAT JAPAN

Most people won't believe it, but in Czechoslovakia, a country not unfriendly to the U. S. A., the people have no idea that the United States had anything to do with defeating Japan. They think it was Russia that did it all.

Reason is that the Russian radio and propaganda machine has done a skillful job of propagandizing the Czechoslovak people, while we have done absolutely nothing to counteract it.

Reason we haven't told our side of the story is that congress has hamstrung the state department on shortwave broadcasting. The house appropriations committee cut the heart out of the state department's appropriation for propaganda, especially radio broadcasting.

MAILMAN SULLIVAN

Too little attention is paid in this politics-ridden capital to the quiet, unassuming officials who consistently do a bang-up job.

One of them is Assistant Postmaster General Gael Sullivan. Coming from Chicago and trained under Mayor Ed Kelly, Sullivan at first looked like a pure political appointee. In six months, however, he has become one of the most effective members of the little cabinet.

CAPITAL CHAFF

Both the Chinese Nationalists and the Chinese Communists are bursting to learn what's in the script for "The Life of Dr. Sun-Yat-Sen," a new movie to be made by Producer Lester Cowan. Perhaps General Marshall could use oriental curiosity to persuade both sides to get together. . . . Assistant Secretary of the Navy John Kenny is the latest to knife President Truman's atomic control policy. Kenny testified on Capitol Hill that he was personally in favor of giving the military greater control over atomic energy—which was directly contrary to his commander-in-chief. . . . British Tories are urging ex-Prime Minister Winston Churchill to resign as Tory leader of commons and devote himself solely to writing his memoirs. They seem to feel he can be more useful in private life.

MERRY GO ROUND

It got little publicity, but President Truman pulled an A-1 man out of the navy when he made Comdr. Jim Reynolds a member of the National Labor Relations board. Reynolds is brother of famed War Correspondent Quentin Reynolds, has been doing a good job handling the navy's labor relations. . . . Harold Ickes had his first censorship difficulties when the Washington Star didn't like what he wrote about Senator McCarran of Nevada, and omitted that particular column.

IMPROVED UNIFORM INTERNATIONAL SUNDAY SCHOOL Lesson

JESUS AND SUPREME LOYALTY TO GOD

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:3-6; Joshua 24:16, 22-24; Luke 14:25-27.
MEMORY SELECTION—No man can serve two masters: for either he will hate the one, and love the other; or else he will hold to the one, and despise the other. Ye cannot serve God and mammon.—Matthew 6:24.

The first three commandments bring man into the presence of God, where he is taught how to worship God in spirit and in truth.

"The first commandment (Exod. 20:3) bids us worship God exclusively; the second (vv. 4-6) bids us worship him spiritually. The first commandment forbids us to worship false gods; the second forbids us to worship the true God under false forms" (Farrar).

We shall lose much of the value of our lesson if we confine the application of it to Israel. We miss the point if we think only of the gods of wood and stone which the heathen worship and fail to apply the truth to any and all idol worship of our day.

The loyalty to God of which our lesson text teaches may be summarized in four words. It is a loyalty of

I. Purpose (Exod. 20:3).

Jehovah means, "I will be what I will be," or "I am that I am," (Exod. 3:14). His very name declares God to be the self-existent, eternal one. How infinitely gracious then is the use of the word "thy" in Exodus 10:2! He—the great I AM—is my God, a personal God. It must be our constant purpose to worship him only.

There are many things concerning which we do not speak dogmatically. There are even Christian doctrines about which spiritual and earnest men may honestly differ, but regarding God we say with absolute assurance and complete exclusiveness—there is but one true God. If he is what he claims to be, if God is not to be declared to be a liar, then it is beyond the realm of possibility that there could be any other God.

Hear it, men and women of America who in an enlightened land and age bow down in heathenish worship "before the god of gold, the god of self, the god of wine, the god of success, the god of fame, the goddess of pleasure, the god of licentiousness." The one true God says, "I am Jehovah. . . Thou shalt have no other gods before me."

II. Performance (Exod. 20:4-6).

What is in the heart must show in the life. The second commandment calls for the undivided devotion and worship of man. It expressly forbids idolatry in any form. The injunction is twofold. (1) Men are forbidden to make any material likeness which to them represents a being to be worshipped. It matters not whether it be an image of what men believe God to be like, or the image of an angelic being, a heavenly body, in fact, "anything that is in the heaven above," or on the earth, such as a man or animal; or under the water, such as a fish. (2) If such objects have been made either by ourselves or others we may not bow down to them, nor render any service to them. Let us all examine our religious ceremonies and practices in the light of God's commandment.

Observe that obedience to this command brings rich blessing to "thousands" (v. 6), whereas disobedience is a curse not only to the man who disobeys, but also to his descendants.

III. Promise (Josh. 24:16, 22-24).

Before the aged leader of Israel came to the close of his life he called leaders of the people, whom he had led in the taking of the Promised Land, and urged them to continue in the way of faith and loyalty to God.

They promised rather readily, but he made clear to them that God was not interested in lip service. They were to prove their promise by putting away all strange gods. This they agreed to do. Wherein they failed, they suffered defeat, and wherein they kept their promise, God blessed them. We may learn from their experience.

IV. Practice (Luke 14:25-27).

It is not always necessary to choose between our natural affections for those near to us and our loyalty to Christ, but if the time comes for that decision, Christ must come first without question and without hesitation (cf. Matt. 10:37).

The word "hate" (v. 26) does not carry with it any thought of malice or personal dislike. We know from other scriptures that we are to honor our father and our mother (Exod. 20:12). The one who fails his own is declared to be worse than an infidel (I Tim. 5:8).

The point is that no personal loyalty or responsibility is to stand in the way of our devotion to Christ. Our own lives must be counted as a glad sacrifice to him as we take up our cross—in the crucifixion of self-will and devotion to his will (see Gal. 2:20; 6:14).

Knife Box and Stand; Two Pull-Out Leaves

IN GREAT GRANDMOTHER'S day knife boxes were a popular project for home craftsmen. Today, they are proving so useful and attractive that the old designs are being copied in modern workshops.

The design shown here also has an Early American stand with small leaves that pull out with tiny brass knobs. Both pieces are easy to cut and assemble from white pine which, when oiled and waxed, has a real antique appearance.

Pattern 281 is actual size for the shaped pieces, also gives cutting diagrams for all other parts, illustrated directions and list of materials. Price of pattern is 15c postpaid. Order pattern direct from:

The Bare Fact

Private Jones had been told to report at the M. O.'s surgery for a minor nose operation.

"Go into the other room," said the M. O. when Jones appeared, "and take off all your clothes."

"What!" protested Jones. "Take off all my clothes just for a nose treatment? Is that necessary?"

"Do as you are told, and don't ask questions!" barked the M. O.

"Yes, sir," answered Jones, and went into the next room. "Can't understand it," Jones remarked to another man in the room with him. "All I need is nose treatment and he makes me take off all my clothes."

"That's nothing," replied the unclad stranger, "he ordered me to do the same thing, and I only came here to deliver a parcel!"

BUILD UP RED BLOOD TO GET MORE STRENGTH

If your blood LACKS IRON!

You girls and women who suffer so from simple anemia that you're pale, weak, "dragged out"—this may be due to lack of blood-iron. So try Lydia E. Pinkham's TABLETS—one of the best home ways to build up red blood—in such cases. Pinkham's Tablets are one of the greatest blood-iron tonics you can buy! At all drugstores. Worth trying!

Watch Your Kidneys!

Help Them Cleanse the Blood of Harmful Body Waste

Your kidneys are constantly filtering waste matter from the blood stream. But kidneys sometimes lag in their work—do not act as Nature intended—fail to remove impurities that, if retained, may poison the system and upset the whole body machinery. Symptoms may be nagging backache, persistent headache, attacks of dizziness, getting up at night, swelling, puffiness under the eyes—a feeling of nervous anxiety and loss of pep and strength. Other signs of kidney or bladder disorder are sometimes burning, scanty or too frequent urination. There should be no doubt that prompt treatment is wiser than neglect. Use Doan's Pills. Doan's have been winning new friends for more than forty years. They have a nation-wide reputation. Are recommended by grateful people the country over. Ask your neighbor!

Stay Close to Ground
The expression "weather so bad the birds are walking" has some basis in fact. Birds will not fly out of sight of the ground when there is a thick fog.

Field Ripened
Research by Wayne university revealed that tomatoes ripened in the field compared with tomatoes from the same field harvested at the "mature green" stage and shipped through the usual channels showed a ratio of approximately 25 to 14 more vitamin C content in favor of the field-ripened product. Experiments with figs, apricots and peaches indicated marked benefits in flavor and sugar content when these crops are left on the trees an additional week or so.

The Indispensable Tomato — Can It in a Variety of Ways

Canned tomatoes have an important place in every home canner's pantry. That is as it should be because tomatoes are the most all-round useful of home canned products. But why stop with plain canned tomatoes when there are so many other delightful things to do with that beautiful fruit of the garden?

For example, there is chili sauce to have at hand when sea-food cocktail or Thousand Island dressing is on the menu, and tomato paste when an Italian dish is to be prepared, and conserve to go with hot muffins and relishes to go with—oh well, you know with what. But here are two choice recipes you may like. They were given us by Gladys Kimbrough, Home Service Director for Ball Brothers Company and editor of that famous Blue Book of home canning and preserving recipes.

Chili Sauce

- 1 gallon tomatoes
- 2 cups onion
- 2 cups sweet red pepper
- 1 pod hot red pepper
- 1 cup sugar
- 3 tablespoons salt
- 1 tablespoon mustard seed
- 1 tablespoon celery seed
- 3 tablespoons mixed spices
- 2 1/2 cups vinegar

Skin tomatoes before chopping. Chop all vegetables before measuring. Tie mixed spices in bag. Mix all ingredients except spice bag and vinegar. Add spice bag after mixture has boiled 30 minutes. Cook until very thick, then add vinegar and boil until there seems to be no more "free" liquid. Taste and add more seasoning if necessary. Pour, while boiling hot, into hot jars; seal at once.

Tomato Conserve

- 2 quarts chopped tomatoes
- 1 orange
- 2 lemons
- 8 cups sugar or 5 cups sugar and 3 cups corn sirup (light or dark)
- 2 cups seedless raisins
- 1 cup English walnut meats
- 1/4 teaspoon salt

Scald, skin, core, and chop sound, ripe tomatoes. Cut orange peel in paper thin slices. Cook tomatoes, lemon juice, orange pulp and peel until tomatoes are reduced to a pulp. If convenient, let stand over night. Add sugar and raisins, preferably Sultanas, and boil rapidly until thick. Add nuts and salt. Pour, boiling hot, into hot jars; seal at once.

Our Insect Friends and Foes

APHIDS

(Plant Lice)

Aphids are the widest spread and greatest potential insect enemy of man. Hardly a plant, tree or shrub but has its particular kind of aphid to prey upon it. Only the ease with which aphids are killed saves the world from being overrun with them.

Aphids are suckers or drinkers. They have a tiny bill or mouth part that is shoved into the soft tissue of the plant or fruit and withdraws sap as a mosquito draws blood. Even the roots are occasionally attacked. Because of this method of feeding, the aphid must be killed by a spray that is directed against the insect's body. No matter how much poison there may be spread on a plant, the aphid is not harmed, for it pushes its bill right through the poison deposit.

There are many insects that prey on aphids and they are easily killed by dry, hot weather. No one could grow a crop if the aphids did not have a great many enemies.

HOW TO COMBAT APHIDS
Use a contact spray such as black leaf 40 which contains nicotine that paralyzes the insects. Spray often and early as soon as the first insect appears. Always spray the undersides of the leaves for there is where the aphids hide. Food is needed. The government says that our reserve of canned goods is at a record low point. This year garden and can.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

The subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, July 7, was:

"GOD"

The Golden Text was:

"The earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of the Lord, as the waters cover the sea" (Hab. 2: 14).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible:

"Then Paul stood in the midst of Mars' hill, and said, Ye men of Athens, I perceive that in all things ye are too superstitious. For as I passed by, and beheld your devotions, I found an altar with this inscription, TO THE UNKNOWN GOD. Whom therefore ye ignorantly worship, him declare I unto you. . . . Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable" (Acts 17: 22, 23, Ps. 145: 3).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook, "Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures" by Mary Baker Eddy:

"From a material standpoint, 'Canst thou by searching find out God?' . . . Can matter recognize Mind? Can infinite Mind recognize matter? Can the infinite dwell in the finite or know aught unlike the infinite? Can Deity be known through the material senses? Can the material senses, which receive no direct testimony of Spirit, give correct testimony as to spiritual life, truth, and love? . . . Paganism and agnosticism may define Deity as 'the great unknowable'; but Christian Science brings God much nearer to man, and makes Him better known as the All-in-All, forever near. Question — What is God? Answer — God is incorporeal, divine, supreme, infinite Mind, Spirit, Soul, Principle, Life, Truth, Love" (pp. 551, 234, 596, 465).

ART RETURNED . . . The above, Apostle in Despair Over the Passing of Mary, taken by the Germans from the Wit Stwosz altar of the Church of Our Lady, Cracow, Poland, has been returned to the Polish church by the United States forces in Europe.

HITLER'S SHAME

Historic Church Altar Stolen By Germans, Returned to Poles

(EDITOR'S NOTE: Pauline Frederick, WNU Foreign Correspondent, was the only American correspondent to accompany the historic mission of returning the Wit Stwosz altar, the largest in Europe, to the Polish church from which the Germans, on Hitler's orders had stolen it. Here is her exclusive story.)

By PAULINE FREDERICK
WNU Features.

CRACOW, POLAND.—It was after midnight when a special train pulled out of the loading yards at Nuernberg, Germany, and headed east. There were two passenger coaches on it, one of them formerly the private car of Joachim von Ribbentrop. There were 22 freight cars, carefully sealed, bearing warnings in English, German and Polish that anyone trying to pilfer the train would be shot. Armed G.I.s stood on guard.

This was a train to bring shame to any German with a conscience. It was to bring tears of joy to the eyes of many Poles. For aboard was Poland's greatest art treasure, the Wit Stwosz altar, being returned to its home, the Church of Our Lady, in Cracow, from where the Germans had looted it.

This trip was the end of a mission begun in 1939. In August of that year the international situation had reached such a critical stage that Prof. Charles Estreicher of the fine arts department of the University of Cracow decided that steps should be taken to safeguard the altar from possible looting. Consequently, he supervised the packing of the sculptures in great wooden cases which were placed on barges and then floated down the Vistula to Sandomierz.

By mid-September, however, the Germans had found all the boxes. Hitler ordered them conveyed to the Reichsbank in Berlin.

Hitler Orders It Set Up.

Meantime, Burgomeister Leibel of Nuernberg conceived the idea of establishing a Veit Stoss center in his city. Veit Stoss is the German spelling of Wit Stwosz. Both Germans and Poles claim the artist as one of their nationals. The fuhrer ordered that the altar should be set up in St. Lawrence's Lutheran church in Nuernberg.

That meant that the framework which had been left in the Church of Our Lady in Cracow had to be torn out and brought to Germany.

The pieces were unpacked in Nuernberg. Then it was found that the Germans had miscalculated again—the altar was too large for St. Lawrence's church.

It now became necessary to find a safe place in which to store the unpacked treasure. There was an ancient tunnel beneath Nuernberg castle. Silesian miners were brought in to lengthen the corridor which begins in an obscure little house near where Albrecht Durer lived and slopes downward until the passage cut through the solid rock is some 100 feet under ground.

The Polish underground kept track of the altar, reporting its whereabouts to Professor Estreicher who had gone to London. There came the all-out raid on Nuernberg and Poles waited anxiously to know whether the altar had been destroyed as the castle above it had been. The tunnel had been a safe place and the Wit Stwosz work was unharmed.

Last October, Lt. Frank Albright of the monuments and fine arts division of military government, and a former professor of archeology at Johns Hopkins, began supervising, with the help of Professor Estreicher, the long task of preparing the altar for shipment to Poland.

Carries Art Treasures.

On April 28, 1946, the train was ready to leave for Cracow with the altar, furniture and typewriters that had been stolen from the University of Cracow; 2,000 chalices and monstrances from which the gold had been looted; da Vinci's "Lady With Ermine," and Rembrandt's "Landscape," together with other treasures that had been taken from Poland by Nazi Governor-General Frank.

I had had nothing to do with bringing back the altar to Poland. But I wore an American uniform, and that was enough to include me in the little group on whom the Polish people lavished their gratitude. I was handed bouquets of flowers. The children clapped and cheered as I walked by. They sang. One handsome young blonde boy, about 14, reached his hand through the crowd and taking mine, said in English:

"You're a reporter. Please tell the American people how grateful we are."

Poles Grateful for Return of Altar

When our train reached Cracow there was a great welcoming ceremony. Then we were whisked to the Francuski hotel.

When the altar was unpacked, the center sculpture, the Passing of Mary, was set up for the dedicatory mass. That was on Sunday, May 5, with spring in full bloom. The great church was packed to the doors. Sun streamed in on the Mary surrounded by white hydrangeas and glowing candles. From high in the back the music of the mass flowed down across the worshippers to the priests before the altar.

Then the mass was finished. Suddenly from the organ, reverently and with all the power of its great pipes, came "The Star Spangled Banner." There was not a dry American eye in the church.

As we came out into the sunlight to go to our hotel, a great cry went up from the people. "Long live the Americans!"

New York Ringside:

One of us wondered how the Louis-Conn RKO fight films would get over since there wasn't a real blow struck in Round One and not much fighting in the following rounds until the finish.

"The movies will be awful dull," said a fellow.

"They'd look a lot better," said a wag, "with Lana Turner!"

Gracie Allen, the fight expert of Burns & Allen, was among the Working Press section in Row A. . . . When the 6th round ended, she ho-hum'd: "Only nine more rounds to go!" . . . Sherman Billingsley was the guest of Prof. Runyon at the ringside. The Stork man was thrilled about getting a "free" seat. He bought $1,000 worth of $100 ducats, which he gave to friends.

After round two (in which Conn irked the champ with some fancy hoop-la) Louis gave Conn the most refrigerated glare since Sonja Henie iced Dan Topping. . . . When Income Tax Collector Nunan met heavy taxpayer Ann Sheridan, she groaned: "Hullo, boss." . . . As the gambling wisecracks put it: "Never bet against a champion—until he loses."

Admiral Halsey was irked over an editorial in a mid-western paper, which rapped his former Comdr., Harold Stassen. . . . The editorialist inaccurately stated that Stassen "hid behind Halsey's skirts."

"That's the damndest tommyrot I ever heard of," barked the Admiral. "It was just the other way 'round! I was far behind Stassen's ship when the Japs dropped bombs on it—killing 75 of Stassen's crew!"

Gen. Eisenhower has a new style of answering politicians who are trying to get him to give some hint on whether he'd consider running for President on the Repub ticket. He refers them to his wife, who says: "I don't like politics." . . . While Uncle Sam sends vast hunkers of our fleet to Bikini for destruction—the British continue to build up their navy.

The king without a throne (Leopold of Belgium) will figure in a story out of Switzerland where he plans to white-wash his war record with some sort of defense. . . . The National City Bank has purchased a plot of land in Sao Paulo (Brazil) and paid more for it than they paid for their Wall Street headquarters. . . . A Boston firm recently bought a million and a half surplus knives, forks and spoons from the gov't. Then they stamped them: "Stolen from the U. S. Army." They sold like mad to war vets who like to boast.

A group of Soviet engineers have arrived in the U. S. "to study public works systems, under the tutelage of the Federal Works Agency. . . . They'll visit Chi, San Francisco, Los Angeles and San Diego. They are 'interested' in bridges, streets and highways. . . . Is dot zoh? . . . If the Army-Navy merger goes through (which insiders believe it won't), Stuart Symington will be Secy of Nat'l Defense. . . . Lots of big shots are reported loaded with Mexican gold. They keep it to circumvent the ruling about possessing American gold coins. . . . You'd be amazed at the number of big-shot American writers and others who pay no taxes by living in Cuba—and continue selling pieces up here. And for good reason, too. Authors often use four years to write a book, and if it's any good, it is a best-seller. Then they are taxed heavily the year they are paid—not the four years devoted to doing the work.

Silhouettes About Town: Admiral Halsey, in mufti, at the Stork with his daughter, Mrs. Lee Spruance, confirming that it is pronounced Hirrah-shim-mah not Hiro-shee-mer. . . . When we reported that months ago a Navy lad "corrected." . . . Youthful Lord Lascelles (King Geo's neevew), one of England's greatest "catches," lunching unrecognized at the Colony. . . . Gen. Hap Arnold in a tweed get-up at the same spot. . . . Jimmy McLarnin, who furiously fought Tony Canzoneri many times at the Garden, embracing him at Toots' . . . D. Runyon shopping at Hanson's drug store unrecognized by some of the kerricksters he got rich writing about. . . . Prof. Albert Einstein, New York's top answer to England's Bevington. . . . Dudley Digges, the first to be signed for Eugene O'Neill's "Ice Man Cometh" play. . . . Jacques Goldstyne, RKO's good-will man-about-town, in charge of visiting Ingrid Bergman. Tough job.

F. Sinatra probably was the heaviest better on the fight in these parts. Put a skyscraper bundle on J. L. . . . G. O. Welles' best trick in his new show ("Around the World") is making the critics eat their reviews. . . . In "Born Yesterday" co-star Paul Douglas rips apart several phone tones easy as pie. Not that Paul Douglas couldn't (without this trick), but if you bake a phone book you can tear it in two without much exertion. . . . A midtown dress designer is expected to contest Major Bowes' will.

Recover Loot Of Hesse Gems; Couple Confess

Crown Jewels of Ancient House Stolen by Army Pair Are Regained.

CHICAGO. — A cardboard stationery box, crammed into a dime-in-the-slot locker in the Illinois Central station, yielded the last, about 60 per cent, of the $1,500,000 in Hessian crown jewels stolen from historic Kronberg castle by Col. Jack W. Durant and his bride, WAC Capt. Kathleen Nash Durant.

The other 40 per cent had been found earlier in the home of a sister of the WAC captain.

The army announced the arrest in Germany of Maj. David F. Watson of Burlingame, Calif.

With all the gems believed recovered, the war department declined to talk about this latest figure brought into the case.

Colonel Durant and his wife are held in military detention in Washington.

Major Watson is the third officer to be arrested because of the looting which is termed the greatest jewel robbery of modern times. He had been overseas for three years, stationed variously in Ireland and Germany. Last June General Eisenhower personally awarded him the bronze star medal for his work as supply officer.

The army says the treasure was turned over last November to the WAC captain, who was operating the Kronberg castle as an officers' rest home.

Officers said they believed the WAC had mailed some of the treasure to herself at an address in the United States, and that Colonel Durant brought the rest with him in his baggage when he was redeployed.

Colonel Durant courted the WAC when she was at Kronberg, and the romance culminated in marriage May 28—less than a week before their arrest while honeymooning in the La Salle hotel at Chicago.

Army Enters Case.

Army intelligence entered the case only last Memorial Day, Colonel Miller related. The story had its beginnings, however, back in 1944, when the army air forces, to which Colonel Durant was assigned, were hammering Nazi Germany.

Meeting in the family castle at Kronberg, near Frankfurt-on-Main, the members of the royal house decided to bury their treasure.

WAC Captain Nash, a former executive of a Phoenix (Ariz.) resort hotel, became manager of the rest home the army installed in the castle in April, 1945, Colonel Miller related.

The thirst of American G.I.s led to discovery of the hidden wine and the soldiers, intrigued with the manner in which the wine had been hidden, decided to search further.

The corporal in the case led a party of enlisted men who uncovered a casket containing the jewels which had been buried under the floor to safeguard the valuables from air raids and occupation forces.

Suspects Followed.

Miller said the corporal turned over the treasure to Captain Nash.

Word finally reached the ears of Princess Sophie Hesse that the jewels had been removed from their hiding place and were in custody of army authorities at the castle.

When she sought to obtain them for her wedding last April, the jewels had vanished and the WAC captain was reported en route to the United States to be mustered out.

Miller said both the WAC and her husband were on terminal leave but had been ordered back to active duty at the last moment so the army could retain jurisdiction.

"We determined where each of the individual suspects were, who was the most likely suspect—and then started out after the most likely suspect," said Colonel Miller. "We started on the WAC captain."

Military police tried to arrest the captain at the home of her sister at Hudson, Wis., but were foiled when she left by a rear door. She and her husband then were traced to the La Salle hotel.

About half of the jewels were recovered from Captain Durant, who confessed after a few hours questioning.

Thief Loses a Button,

Gains Cash and Whisky

CHICAGO. — "Button, button, who's got the button?"

The police. It is their sole clue to the burglar who broke into the Michael Herro tavern at 1333 S. 2nd street recently and took $20 in cash, 6 fifths of whisky and 10 cartons of cigarettes.

The button apparently was torn off the burglar's coat when he crawled in through a window.

Puzzled Driver Stops,

Finds Girl on Bumper

DES MOINES, IOWA.—John Lawrence noticed oncoming motorists waving and honking their horns as they met his car. "I decided something must be wrong so I stopped," he said. "I nearly fainted when I found a little girl on the front bumper."

He did not know when or how she got there. Lorayne Taylor, five, unhurt, wouldn't talk except to say, "I was after a loaf of bread for mommy."

Housewife's Sense

By E. M. PARKINSON
McChure Newspaper Syndicate.
WNU Features.

THE Lane account was well worth going after. Mr. Hopkins took Mrs. Hopkins with him on the trip. A letter was sent ahead to the Lane office, so that he would be expected. Still, there was a disappointment.

"I'm so sorry that our buyer, Mr. Porterfield, was called out of town," the secretary told him. "But Mr. Porterfield recognized your name."

Mr. Hopkins broke in. "Don't tell me it's Roscoe Porterfield!"

"It is," she smiled. "He wants you at his home for dinner tonight. He'll arrive on an evening train. You know Mrs. Porterfield?"

"Oh, yes! And so does Mrs. Hopkins, who is with me."

"That's fine! I'll let you in on a secret," the woman said. "Mr. Porterfield is a great family man. A chatty evening with Mrs. Porterfield and the girls will just about cinch the sale."

He went back to his hotel, and told Mrs. Hopkins. "It's a devoted family dear. We must be tactfully flattering. And—er—you'd better let me handle it." He laughed nervously. "After all, you're a housewife, with housewife's sense—lots of it. A good thing, but—er—different from business sense."

"Quite," said Mrs. Hopkins, who'd heard that speech many times. "And at that, Jenny Porterfield and I will have lots in common. Both housewives."

"Wait a minute," Mr. Hopkins was staring. "Did you say Jenny? Her name is Lorna."

"Lorna?" Mrs. Hopkins looked astonished.

"Lorna, certainly. Jenny was Roscoe's girl in Northville. A little dark girl. She was lame. Lorna was the tall beautiful blonde from Lake City."

They were perplexed. They did not know which one was Roscoe Porterfield's wife.

A tall blonde young girl met them at the Porterfield door. "Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins? Do come in. We're so sorry that Mother had to see a guest off. The train's a little late, and Daddy's coming on it so Mother's waiting."

When she disappeared to call her sisters Mrs. Hopkins whispered, "We're on a spot, dear. We've got to be careful."

"Nonsense," Mr. Hopkins laughed. "That tall blonde girl is surely Lorna's daughter."

"Suppose she introduces three or four little dark sisters?"

"She won't."

He was right. She returned with three tall blonde young girls, and Mr. Hopkins gave Mrs. Hopkins a triumphant glance. "Well, gals," he said, "I must say you take after your beautiful mother—"

"In many ways," Mrs. Hopkins broke in hastily. "We knew your father and mother when we weren't much older than you are now."

"Oh, do tell us about those days!" the girls begged. "You're the first old friends of Mom's and Daddy's we've met. Did you have fun?"

"Did we!" Mr. Hopkins sighed. "Parties, picnics, dances. . . . And let me tell you, the star of those dances—"

"Excuse me, dear," Mrs. Hopkins broke in. "I'm so interested in that lovely picture. Come look at it, dear."

It was a nice painting, hung rather high. The top of the frame was dusty. Mrs. Hopkins raised her eyebrows and moved on. Mr. Hopkins squirmed. If she would only forget for one moment that she was a housewife! "As I was saying," he began, "when we used to dance, there was no one like—"

"Now, now, don't boast, dear," Mrs. Hopkins interrupted. "See this lovely vase on the mantel." She gave him a meaningful glance, and her eyes dropped. He saw that the top of the vase was dusty. She turned and said sweetly, "Are you real old-fashioned home girls?"

"No, I guess we're not," the oldest admitted. "We're all athletic. And with school and everything, we're not very domestic."

"Was Mom a home girl when she was young?" another asked.

Mr. Hopkins was nervous as a cat. Lorna—tall, blonde Lorna—a home girl!

"Yes, indeed," Mrs. Hopkins said. "She was held up as an example to all the other girls. Their mothers always said, 'If only you were clever about the house like little Jenny!'"

The door bell rang and one of the girls flew to admit Mr. and Mrs. Porterfield. "Mom," she said, "Mrs. Hopkins is the sweetest thing! She says you were wonderful when you were a girl and that all the mothers wanted their daughters to be just like you. Of course we knew it, but it's nice to hear it from someone else."

The Porterfields, Roscoe and Jenny, came in beaming.

The order was all but signed when Mr. and Mrs. Hopkins left. Mr. Hopkins wiped his brow. "Honey, you saved my life. Those blonde girls made me so positive it was Lorna. How did you know it was Jenny?"

Mrs. Hopkins patted his arm. "Housewife's sense," she said complacently. "You see, the low furniture was shining. So I knew the high surfaces were dusty only because the housewife couldn't see them. She had to be the short gal—Jenny!"

Flattering Frock
A PRETTY summer frock as you'll see is this flattering yoke charmer that makes up so nicely in contrasting fabrics. Wide extended shoulders accent a tiny waist, darts insure a neat fit. Try it in a heavenly pink stripe with a plain fabric or white eyelet for yoke and sleeves, and trim with oversize ric rac.

Pattern No. 1527 comes in sizes 12, 14, 16, 18, 20, 40 and 42. Size 14 requires 2½ yards of fabric in 36 or 38-inch for lower part of dress; ¾ yard for contrasting yoke and sleeves.

AROUND THE HOUSE

If you're planning to paint your house this summer and intend to do the work yourself, remember it is smart to let the first coat dry ten days before applying the second.

When game is on the menu, avoid handling before cooking by flouring this way: Put a small amount of flour in a paper sack, pour in the pieces of meat and shake the bag until each piece is well coated with flour.

Record the guests who have dined at your table by having them autograph the tablecloth. Then, before the next dinner, you can embroider each signature in outline stitch.

To soften putty for removal from window panes, draw a hot soldering iron over the material, being careful to keep the heat away from the glass. Most putty, however, when it needs to be replaced, can be removed with a small screw-driver.

If you prefer to close up the shelves where your canned goods are stored, try this trick. Fasten worn out window shades, still on rollers, to the top shelves and pull down to desired length.

"One meat ball" will go just a bit farther if you will only remember to add a little cooked macaroni to the meat mixture when serving with tomato sauce.

The oyster shell is good for something. Put it in the bottom of the tea kettle and it will prevent formation of hard-water scale.

In building a casement window in the kitchen remember that it should open out, not in. And the base should be at least a foot above the sink.

A basket equipped with such items as soap, polishes, short-handled brushes, sponge, clean and lintless dustcloths, and the like will save time in cleaning as you go from room to room.

MOTOR PASTIME

Motor News, official publication of the Chicago Motor Club, printed the following story as a suggestion for amusing children on long auto trips. Any number of games will help for a short time. One is: to divide the car's passengers into teams and then see which team can count the most four footed animals on its side of the road during a fixed distance, such as 25 to 50 miles.

As this grows tiresome, suggest that white roses will be counted as two or three. Another suggestion is: teams lose their entire count every time the car passes a school house or church on their side of the road.

If you can stand the strain, have the count apply to all four-footed animals—horses, cows, sheep, mules, dogs, and cats. Frequently this game is good for several hours, depending upon the animation that adults can inject into it.

There's the alphabet game. For competing teams and try to build up a straight sequence of letters from 'a' to 'z' by watching the road signs that contain the printed words from which to lift the letters. The first to reach 'z' wins. Sometimes one team will be going along famously, and then suddenly be setymied by inability to locate a 'j' or an 'x' or some other letter for ten of 15 miles.

Tiring of this you might suggest keeping track of license plates. Watching for large numbered license plates is generally good for an hour or more. A car radio is also a great help in keeping children quiet, especially if you can locate a good thriller program while you are driving. And comic books are a mainstay of many parents.

But no method will work for too long a time, so inject variation. It is also well to let the child get out and run off a little surplus energy by leg action.

You're going to find out, if you've not already, that adults also get a big kick out of some of these games as the car rolls merrily along. As a matter of fact not a few adults amuse themselves on motor tours by seeing who can form the best poker hand from state license plates. Another adult "popular sport" is to determine in your own mind, whether the man or woman is the "boss" of the farm you may be passing. If the farm buildings, other than the house, are in tip top shape, the reasoning is that the man has the final word. If the house is spic and span and the yard beautiful with flowers, trees and shrubs, the assumption is that the feminine members of the household are in charge.

PICK YOUR CORN EARLY!

Dry It In Crib, with Behlen All-Steel
 Ventilators and Tunnels

New, modern, fast way to dry corn. No more waiting for corn to dry in fields. Pick early, when mechanical pickers work best. Crib it, and let Behlen Ventilators and Tunnels dry corn faster than you ever dreamed possible.

GOODBYE TO CORN BORERS!

Agricultural colleges and experimental stations recommend picking early, to help control corn borers. You get your corn into cribs to dry, and shred or chop stalks and plow under before ground freezes, to kill the borers.

Behlen Tunnels not only ventilate, but are very handy for shelling. Just run sheller "drag" into tunnel, as at left. Pull out tunnel sections one by one. Corn drops onto conveyor belt. Saves hours of labor!

COME IN NOW!

Don't wait. We have Behlen All-Steel Ventilators and Corn Tunnels on hand now. But due to present industrial situation, we cannot promise we will get any more this fall. We strongly urge you to come in right away, while we are still able to supply you. Cost is less than for old-style wood ventilators.

RED SPIDERS
OBSERVED ON EVERGREENS

Red spider damage to evergreens, principally varieties of spruce and Andora juniper, has been observed in several parts of the state, reports H. W. Gilbert, landscape gardening extension, University of Illinois, College of Agriculture.

H. B. Petty, extension entomologist, points out that the spiders can be knocked off the trees by using water. Water pressure should be at least 40 pounds, and the operation should be performed early in the morning or in the evening. If the water is sprayed during the heat of the day, the sun may cause a burn where the droplet of water lodges.

Gilbert says that, if left unchecked, the red spider can practically ruin a large tree. He believes the warm weather of March brought on the spiders somewhat earlier than usual.

Officials Deplore Feeding Of Animal Carcasses To Hogs

Warnings against the dangers of feeding dead animal carcasses to hogs have been issued recently by several important State and University officials. This practice, returning in some sections of this State, has brought out these pertinent facts from Prof. Robert Graham, head of the Animal Pathology and Hygiene Department at the University of Illinois, Urbana.

"I know of no surer way to spread disease on the farm than the feeding of carcasses of dead animals. In order to prevent diseases spread from this source, deep burial, burning, or carefully removing such carcasses to rendering plants equipped to handle and destroy such infection are recommended."

Some farmers apparently do not recognize the dangers resulting from this practice: dangers that involve the health of other livestock on the farm, the farmer and his family, as well as the consumer of pork products. Authoritative information comes from Dr. C. E. Fidler, Superintendent of the Division of Livestock Industry in the Department of Agriculture at Springfield. Dr. Fidler states:

"There are many diseases that may be transmitted to livestock by feeding carcasses of animals that have died of such diseases as Anthrax, Rabies, Anaplasmosis, Hemorrhagic Septicemia, Brucellosis, Erysipelas, Black Leg and others."

The legality of feeding animal carcasses to hogs is clearly expressed in these remarks from Mr. Arnold P. Benson, Director of the Department of Agriculture in Springfield:

"The Illinois Statutes to be found in Illinois Revised Statutes, 1945, Dead Animal Disposal Law two sections of which, Sections 1 and 2, provide for the regulation and business of disposing of the bodies of dead animals and also the requirements that are made of the persons engaged in that type of business. Sub-Section 5 or Section 2 states very definitely that no uncooked carcasses or portions of carcasses shall be fed to any livestock, which indicates clearly that such a practice is a violation of the Illinois law. Section 17 also provides that dead animals shall be disposed of within 24 hours after death by cooking, burying or burning, or be disposed of within said time to a person licensed to so dispose of it."

DDT "Smoke Screen" Boosts Seed Corn Quality

To improve seed corn quality for the Nation's farmers, the DeKalb Agricultural Association, Inc., is dusting 6,000 acres of month-old DeKalb hybrid seed fields with DDT by air. This is the first large-scale use of DDT as protection against the European corn borer, but experimental trials last year indicated that the improvement in seed quality and yield makes DDT dusting by air practical in seed production. Two planes are used, covering about 1,500 acres a day. One to three applications are applied depending upon the amount of borer infestation.

Farm Scrap Needed by Steel Mills

Farmers can help themselves to get steel—whether it be a new piece of farm machinery, an automobile, a keg of nails, a roll of fencing or other products—by promptly taking their accumulated scrap to the nearest scrap dealer, the Committee on Iron and Steel Scrap of the American Iron and Steel Institute said today.

A grave shortage of scrap threatens to thwart the steel industry's attempts to make up the 19 million tons of steel that it has lost since V-J Day as a result of strikes and work stoppages. The scarcity of scrap is due largely to the fact that industries which usually generate scrap in large quantities have not been operating at all or operating at low levels since V-J Day.

Farms have always been a good source of scrap and during the war when drives were conducted, agricultural areas yielded large tonnages of scrap to help win the conflict.

In view of the current scrap shortage which threatens the full use of steel-making facilities, farmers are asked to take their scrap now to town and sell it to scrap dealers. If the scrap is unusually bulky, preventing its easy transportation by the farmer, the scrap dealer can be called or arrangements can be made through the local farm agent to get it to the dealer.

The steel which weeks ago should have gone through the processing and fabricating channel, is far behind schedule and, therefore, the American Iron and Steel Institute's Committee on Scrap has warned that a complete return to normal in the flow of scrap cannot occur until the supply of new steel approximates the demand.

In the ten months from August 1945 through May 1946, production of ingots and steel for castings was 22,936,000 tons lower than output over the same period of 1944-1945. Presumably, better operating conditions would have enabled at least 19,000,000 tons of that total to have been made. The 19,000,000 tons would have supplied the steel for 1,000,000 small dwellings, plus the steel for 1,700,000 automobiles, plus all the bale ties made for farmers over the last nine years, plus 50,000,000 one-quart tin cans, plus a washing machine and a stove for every one of the 1,000,000 homes mentioned above—and still there would remain 7,500,000 tons of steel for other purposes, including much needed farm machinery and equipment.

The requirements for all goods, whether for the home, the farm, transportation, etc., will be fulfilled in direct proportion to the receipt by the steel mills of scrap.

NEW LENOX

Dolores Anderson

Mr. and Mrs. Richard Weber motored to Random Lake, Wis. last Thursday where Mr. Weber had a business appointment.

Guests at the Weber home the Fourth of July were Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Weber and sons of Chicago, and Mr. and Mrs. Clement Meyn, of Milwaukee.

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's League of Trinity Evangelical Lutheran church of New Lenox was held June 25 in the church. It was decided by the women to hold a Sewing Bee on July 9. It was also decided by the members, that due to scarcity of certain foods, it would be better to have all families attending the church picnic July 14 bring their own lunch baskets and table service. The League members will serve coffee at the picnic.

Pastor Reinke again obliged the members with some very interesting discussions on questions submitted to the Open Forum. Flower Committee for July, Mrs. Irene Johnson, July 7th, Mrs. Gene Kersten, July 14, Mrs. Lena Klausning, July 21 and Mrs. Margaret Knupp, July 28.

The Women's Society of Christian Service of the Methodist church, met July 8th in the home of Mrs. Lura Johnston, with the president, Mrs. Vernice Schummler presiding. The meeting opened with a prayer by Mrs. Nona Spath followed by the Secretary and Treasurer's reports given by Mrs. Lois Werner and Mrs. Eunice Vally. Announcement was made that the annual Fall Bazaar and supper will be held Sept. 26 in the dining hall at the Camp grounds, and the following committees were appointed:

Fancy work, Mrs. Eunice Vally, Mrs. Merna Sievert and Mrs. Lucille Kennedy; Aprons, Mrs. Myrtle Alexander, Mrs. Betty Jordan and Mrs. Bertha Kellogg; Country Store and Bakery, Mrs. Nona Spath, Mrs. Lura Johnston and Mrs. Marjorie Brookman; Grab Bag, Mrs. Eva Oram and Mrs. Anna Townsend; Turkey dinner, chairman, Mrs. Phoebe Kennedy, Dining room, Mrs. Gertrude Hoefler and Mrs. Betty Duerr; Decorations, Mrs. Edna Coles and Mrs. Viola Ekedahl.

The worship and song service was led by Mrs. Clementine Hendrixson, assisted by Mrs. Edna Cole and Mrs. Merna Sievert. Mrs. Bess Schmitt who was in charge of the program gave an interesting talk on "Women, Trustees of the Future". The president announced the next regular meeting will be held Sept. 4 in the home of Mrs. Anne C. Francis, who will be assisted by Mrs. Hazel Sievert.

The Frankfort New Lenox 4H club met in regular monthly session July 2, in Francis school. The meeting was conducted by the club president Robert Walker. Routine reports were given by the Secretary and Treasurer, Donald Stevens, followed by the club pledge. Miss Betty Hass reported on the Northern Illinois judging contest, which members of the club attended, and held July 2 at Curtis Candy Farms at Dundee and Carey, Ill. Robert Walker placed second, Gordon Smith third, and Charles Holm 3rd. The next meeting of the club will be August 6th at the Fred A. Haley farm as a feature on the program preceding the annual get together and weiner roast which will begin at 8 o'clock. Those attending are asked to bring their own weiners.

Mrs. Edward Berenz entertained at a Stork shower in her home Saturday evening honoring her cousin, Mrs. Harlow Fox. Bunco was played and prizes were awarded Mrs. Arthur Fox, Mrs. Edw. Meyers and Mrs. LeRoy Luckey. Mrs. Fox received many lovely gifts. The hostess served dainty refreshments at quartet tables.

Off the Runway

Civil Air Patrol, Squadron 613-3

by Sandy King

Top Flight News: Sept. 20, 21 and 22, you'll be able to see the largest, most spectacular modern air show ever to be staged in the State of Illinois. The Army Air Forces are aiding Civil Air Patrol in this air show by sending three P51's, three P47's, three A26's, a C54, a hospital ship fully equipped and a B29.

Jet Too! That's not all, you'll see the famous P80 Shooting Star in action. On the ground will be a display of new models of civilian aircraft, AAF and enemy equipment used during the war and an R5 Helicopter. Local flyers will augment the AAF show with aerobatics, parachute jumps and human pick up.

Lt. Col. Gordon A. DaCosta, the Illinois Wing Commander, states the exact Chicagoand location of the show will be announced soon. Proceeds will be used for the furtherance of aviation in Illinois, by awards of flying scholarships, procurement of radio equipment, light aircraft, club houses and the operation of 70 Illinois Squadrons of Civil Air Patrol. A light plane will be won by one of the spectators. So stay on the beam, cruise to thrills by watching for further news about the big AAF CAP airshow!

CAP Climbs to new Heights! President Truman has signed a bill, unanimously passed by both Houses of Congress, to grant a Federal Charter to Civil Air Patrol, the war born volunteer auxiliary of the Army Air Forces, it was announced July 2nd by Lt. Col. DaCosta, Commanding Illinois Wing. It is the first such charter approved in 12 years.

This unusual recognition was ascribed in House and Senate to CAP's war service on anti-sub coastal patrol, border patrol, target towing, missing aircraft search, and other missions. Civilian pilots in their own planes relieved military aircraft and crews for duty overseas and more than 50 CAP airmen were lost.

CAP also served on a large scale as a recruiting and pre-induction training corps for Army aviation. General Carl Spaatz, Commanding General of the AAF, has stated that he intends to continue the AAF Auxiliary status of Civil Air Patrol as an important part of the long range plan for air power in this country.

Many local folks are among the 100,000 Cadets and Members active in the U. S. All units are trained and equipped to go into action as AAF Auxiliaries in the event of war, and, at any time, to fly in such emergencies as flood, forest fire, explosion, or missing aircraft search. The nationwide organization was alerted last month for duty in carrying medical supplies and mail during the rail strike.

CAP Cadets. The CAP Cadet program for young people of 15 to 17, inclusive, carries no pledge of military service, but is considered an important source of recruits for the AAF, the Air Reserve and the Air National Guard. Many AAF veterans are joining CAP as a means of continuing their aviation interest and are instructing the cadets. Air reservists who join CAP will be credited for the time spent in teaching cadets.

As an AAF auxiliary, CAP is under the top command of a group of Air Corps officers headed by Col. Earle L. Johnson, National Commander, with headquarters at Bolling Field, Washington, D. C. AAF liaison officers are assigned in the States to assist in the training program. No substantial changes in the present activities and policies of CAP are anticipated, but it is expected that the charter will greatly strengthen the organization in all areas.

Salem, Ill. Celebrates. The Salem Air port 4th of July show spotlighted two chute jumps by Floyd Orrington. One was a night jump with a light attached to the chute.

Free book. "Here's How" is the name of a Roger booklet offered by Aero Insurance Underwriters. It contains revised sections of Civil Air regulations, Air Traffic Rules, Pilot Certificate, Information and General Operations rules. A whole of a lot of handy pointers.

That's all for now.

TO ALL OUR MOST WORTHY GARDENERS & OTHERS Who Take Delight and Comfort in the Kitchen-Garden

LET the Reader be pleas'd to take notice, that I write not here for those which are skilful Gardeners, but for those that have a mind to become so, that their Gardens may be in a Condition to allure the Spectators, and delight the Eyes of the Curious.

Of the STANDING
FOR the most laudable placing, the Husbandman ought to consider the condition and property of the earth of his Garden, whether of itself the same be very moist, or over dry, acid or sweet; and that it must be fruitful and kindly bring up profitable herbs. The garden must be comfort'd and enjoy'd by the Sun and some what lie aloof to permit proper drainage of water. And this diligently obey, it is better is a little ground of field, being well dress'd and labour'd, than a large ground having no painful labour bestow'd on it at all.

Of the SOWING
HE who must be very carefully prepared for Seed. Note that good dressing maketh a good ground the better, and greatly amendeth an ill ground. Many behoove the Gardener to learn the apt times to sow or plant in. Many hurry this Business up and loss of seeds or plants in the Frost is a common Complaint. The Planting must be attended to in a due Manner, not slighted, as is too customary. Do not sow too shallow or more exposed and yet not too deep. Do not sow too thickly as Seedlings must be given free Room for Growth or they will come to Nothing.

Of the INSTRUMENTS
A little Neglect may do a great deal of Mischief. The careful Husbandman after each using cleanness and fresh Tools and Instruments of the Earth wherein they are used to be laden. He keeps them well appear'd and safe from harm that happens in the course of being left in the field.

Of FRESHENING of the Beds
For this Season must not be pass'd over. The age of the plants shall greatly direct the Gardener to know how to manage them, for tender young plants need more care, require a lesser watering. A gentle sprinkling shall greatly prosper them where otherwise by the hastily drenching with water, they are much annoyed and put in hazard of perishing. But herbs more grown will pay to have their soil plentifully moisten'd that their roots may drink. The watering of the beds ought to be done in the morning, soon after the Sun rising and at evening when the Sun possesseth a weaker force above the Earth.

Of the CULTIVATION
HERE plants grow thick together, the Gardener must learn to set them thinner to the end they might the better increase and wax bigger. And what painful industry is requir'd in the weeding away of all harmful herbs coming up. According to the Condition of the Crop various Methods are to be us'd: the Hoe is the best; but there are places where this purging ought rather to be exercis'd with the Hand, for fear of scorching the young plants before they be grown strong in roots and big shot up. And the Husbandman must take heed that he do not too husterously loose the earth, nor handle much the plants.

Of the WEEDING
best Authors agree to Digging as well as weeding. Flies with long legs, terribly expell'd or digging and can uttermost destruction quiet and green.

Of the HOESING
Sowings, and have a special care for the too great a hoe.
